In Big War

By SIDNEY J. WILLIAMS

British Union Press. Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

LONDON, April 11—First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill declared today that the Skagerrak sea battle still is raging and promised that German warships would be blasted from the sea and Allied control established in Norway. The battle from Denmark to the distant North Sea shores, Churchill told the House of Commons, has resulted in "great losses" to the Germany navy.

Adolf Hitler has made "as great a strategic and political error" in Scandinavia as that which undermined Napoleon, Churchill forecast.

In staccato, headline fashion, the First Lord of the Admiralty told his greatest story of war at sea and in the air, unfolding the first chapter of a conflict that may have no parallel.

Sever Nazi Lines At South

Churchill said that, while no Norwegian ports had yet been recaptured from the Germans, the Allied fleets had no intention of permitting the Germans to maintain communication lines through the Skagerrak to Norway, thus indicating that the strategy would be to sever the Nazi lines at the LONDON, April 11.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Göteborg, Sweden, tonight said that German transports driven around in last night's battle off the Swedish coast were blazing fiercely and that 1,000 bodies were reported floating on the water. As many as six of the 10 German transports were reported sunk by the British navy in this action.

South in preparation for counter-attacks in northern Norway.

Churchill disclosed in fighting the German invasion of Norway since Sunday:

Four British destroyers (including two lost at Narvik) had been sunk. They included the 1,345-ton Glowworm and the 1,370-ton Gurkha. Each had a normal crew of slightly under 200 men.

He said the cruiser Aurora was attacked unsuccessfully five times while "the destroyer Gurkha, accompanying her, was hard hit and sank after 4½ hours and the crew rescued."

"There is no reason," said Mr. Churchill, "why a large portion of the crew of the Glowworm should not have been saved if the ordinary manner of fighting men had been practised by the enemy."

Battleship Rodney Resists Bomb

The mighty 38,000-ton battleship Rodney was struck by a heavy Nazi aerial bomb, but her decks "resisted it" and only seven men were hurt.

The 32,000-ton British battle cruiser Renown fought and routed the German battleship Scharnhorst of 26,000 tons and the German cruiser Admiral Hipper of 10,080 tons, in a dramatic battle north of Narvik.

Four German cruisers have been sunk.

The British destroyer Zulu sank a German U-boat off the Orkney Islands and British submarines have "taken a heavy toll of German transport and store ships crossing to Scandinavia."

About a dozen German merchant ships have been sunk or captured in the Skagerrak and Kattegat or in the North Sea.

German Destroyers, U-Boats Sunk

A number of German destroyers "together with some U-boats" have been destroyed by the Allied naval and air forces.

The Faroe Islands, north of Scotland and owned by Denmark, are now being occupied by the British but will be returned later to Denmark. The question of Iceland, also under the Danish king, will be given further consideration.

Two British cruisers were "damaged by Nazi air attack, but remained at their stations and the British Home fleet has been continuously fighting off German air attacks along the Norwegian coast, while waves of British planes have participated in the counter-attacks on the Nazis."

Churchill warned that the naval fighting probably was only a prelude to fierce war on land.

Prelude Of Far Larger Events

"The very recklessness with which Hitler and his advisers cast the fate of the German navy upon the wild waters may be only a prelude of far larger events, which depend on land," he said. "We have probably arrived at the first crunch of the war."

He warned the neutrals that Germany was likely to strike again at her weak neighbors but he promised that the Allies would dominate Norway and tighten their blockade of the Reich as a result of extension of the war front.

"We shall take what we want of this Norwegian coast now," Churchill said, "with enormous increase in the efficiency of our blockade."

"We feel ready to encounter the utmost malice of the

Hitler's Gamble in Scandia Waters May Prove His Own Trap

Naval Battle Creates Possibility Swedes Will Join With Allies Against Nazis—Rail Supply To Norway At Stake

The following dispatch by Webb Miller, European general manager of the British United Press, is based on overnight dispatches from London and Stockholm and explains the British viewpoint on the significance of developments in Scandinavia—EDITOR.

By WEBB MILLER

British United Press. Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

LONDON, April 11.—One of the big sea battles of modern history went into its third day as the British struck at the core of German naval power and sought to turn Adolf Hitler's Scandinavian gamble into a disaster.

The battle created a possibility, it was suggested here, that a British success may bring Sweden into the war if it should lead to a German withdrawal from one of Sweden's railroads to supply and reinforce Germany's expeditionary force in Norway, but the Swedes were making every effort to avoid such a fate.

Already hundreds of bodies are reported strewn in icy waters along the rocky beaches of the 1200 mile coast from the Kattegat to Narvik above the Arctic Circle.

More men may have lost their lives in the last three days than during the entire seven months of the western war up to this week, except in Belgium.

The most brilliant feat of the British was in forcing passage through the Skagerrak to the mouth of the Kattegat, naval sources here believe. Should the British warships prove able to maintain their position, the German fleet will be forced to withdraw by sea from their German and Danish bases.

In that event, the British said it was likely an immediate ultimatum would go from Germany to Sweden, demanding that the Swedish railways would remain the only line open by which Germany could attempt to maintain her

PRICE OF FLAX HITS 10-YEAR HIGH AT PEG

WINNEPEG, April 11.—Flax futures on the Winnipeg grain exchange today added another 2½ to 3 cents to their current price to establish new 10-year highs.

At the close of trading May was quoted at $2.81 with July at $2.84 to cents to their current price of $2.80. These prices were about $1.08 above flax quotations before the war but still well below the $3.80 level reached in 1930.

A decline in Argentine flax shipments and a dominant government report that production in Canada last year was $1,000,000 bushels under annual industrial requirement of 12,300,000 bushels, influenced buying.

STOCKHOLM, April 11.—The Svenska Dagbladet reported today that German troops who landed at Narvik, northern Norwegian port, now are trying to flee over the border into Sweden.

BRITISH SHIPS ATTEMPTING LAND TROOPS

Warships Seen In Oslo Fjord Near Norwegian Capital

By FREDERICK LAUDON

British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 11.—Reports in Stockholm newspapers today said that British warships in Oslo fjord apparently were attempting to land troops near the Norwegian capital.

The newspaper reports were from the Norwegian-Swedish frontier and coincided with dispatches that said the Norwegians were rallying armed forces in the interior and fighting against the Germans while the Allies moved in against the coast.

British warships previously had been reported in Oslo fjord, but there reports were denied in Berlin.

Other dispatches from Copenhagen said that the British had moved part of the Skagerrak in the last few days in order to halt German troops.

This front may have been the Skagerrak in the last few days in order to halt German troops.

MASS ATTACK ON MAGINOT LINE LOOMS

German Preparations Observed At Various Points On Rhine

PARIS, April 11.—If French army leaves were suspended today, German preparations for a mass attack on the Maginot line would be complete.

PARIS, April 11.—German preparations indicating an attack on the Maginot line would be complete.

An authoritative military source said:

"Events occurring in northern France should not cause us to forget the front between the Moselle and the Rhine. This front may be the scene of a major battle."

PARIS, April 11.—German preparations indicating an attack on the Maginot line would be complete.

The report, reaching the newspaper from a London source, said that German troops cut off the retreat by blowing up several sections of the railway and the fighting was proceeding along the tracks.

In contradiction to the Dagbladet, the Swedish News Agency (Tidningsnäs Telegrafbyrå) reported from Narvik, near the Norwegian border, that the Germans still occupied Narvik last night.

This morning there was nothing to indicate that the situation had changed. No German soldiers, the agency said, were seen in the frontier region.

Off the west coast of Sweden, the Swedish Navy reported last night, all seemed quiet this morning. The agency said. No warships were seen from shore but three foreign planes were sighted flying northward.

Bergen Recaptured From German Arms By THOMAS HAWKINS

Associated Press Staff Writer.

OSLO, April 11.—Norwegian forces have recaptured the port of Bergen from the Germans, the Norwegian commander at the city reported today by wireless and are making for an attempt to reach Trondheim, further up the west coast, from the coast.

German troops are being concentrated around Trondheim, the capital, but the Norwegian army will come shortly, he reported.

NORWEGIANS ADVANCE

Norwegian troops were said to be advancing from the north in the Allied command, the agency said, operating between Trondheim and the Swedish border.

Following commander's report on Bergen, other sources reported.

STATEMENT MAY FOLLOW TODAY'S CABINET MEET

OTTAWA, April 11.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King expected a cabinet council meeting for this afternoon and it was believed a statement would be made.

The new government in organizing the new department of munitions will be named.

Meanwhile the transport minister declined to comment on a report that the War Supply Board, and possibly his fellow members, would resign.

The War Supply Board was elevated Thursday in Washington and portfolio of government with Mr. Campbell as minister in addition to his transport portfolio.

The prime minister said Mr. Campbell and his associates on the board would remain at their posts.

Canucks, Americans In U.S. Volunteer For Scandia War

British United Press.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Volunteers from the United States and Americans for duty with the Scandinavian army today poured into the Norwegian and Danish consulates in Washington and their consulates in principal cities.

None of the enlistment offers was accepted here, and no orders from the War Department have been received. Applicants were advised that they would be notified later should they be accepted for service.

Those received at the Danish consulate in Washington were from Red Cross, because, as the Danish consul put it—and we quote—"they can't swim across."

American Safe

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The United States Insurance Company in Copenhagen and Oslo reported that the Danish government had accepted all American property are safe in Denmark and Norway.

NAZIS LOSE 19 PLANES SINCE LAST SUNDAY

Seven German Bombers Shot Down Over Scania Flow

LONDON, April 11.—A German bomber flying low was shot down over the Scania Flow today by a plane of the Royal Air Force coastal command.

LONDON, April 11.—The air ministry announced today that seven German bombers were shot down last night off Scania Flow. The R. A. F. included three aircraft have been destroyed by British warplanes since Sunday and that the Royal Air Force has lost only six in that period.

An enemy plane was reported shot down today in Eastern England.

The air ministry said two other bombers were probably damaged during the Scania Flow raid. Losses on the German side were not reported.

German Heinkel Is Driven Off By R.A.F.

PARIS, April 11.—A Royal Air Force patrol plane today shot down a German Heinkel flying very high above the English channel, near Cape Gris-Nez, general headquarters of the R. A. F. in France, announced.

The British patrol plane attacked the enemy with all guns lighting. The German machine was last seen diving into the clouds, with black smoke streaming from its port motor.

The Grin-Nez is just southwest of Calais. It is the closest point of French territory to England.

Churchill Avers Great Losses Are Inflicted On Nazis

enemy and to achieve a victory in what is a world cause."

He put special emphasis on the success of the Allied forces in driving into the Skagerrak and the Kattegat, which are the narrow sea lanes leading to the Baltic Sea.

British Subs Take Heavy Toll

"German already has ordered all merchant vessels out of this area and, in this respect, our advice coincides with theirs," he said, declaring that Germany's supply lines to Norway would be severed in that area.

"Our submarines have by no means been asleep. They have taken a heavy toll of German transport and shore ships crossing to Scandinavia. We are not going to allow the enemy to supply their troops across those waters with impunity."

"If the Norwegian government had not been so very strict and severe in enforcing her neutrality against us," he said, "it would have been very easy to give them more timely and more support than is now possible," he went on.

Invasion Elaborately Prepared

He charged that German invasion had been "long and elaborately prepared" against a number of small countries and it was only in the small hours of Monday that it was learned "that Norway and Denmark had drawn the unlucky numbers in this sinister lottery."

"It is not the slightest use blaming the Allies for not being able to give substantial protection to neutral countries until they are held at arm's length by those countries until they are actually attacked on a scientifically prepared plan by Germany," he said.

"The Renown, one of Britain's battle cruisers, opened fire at daybreak Tuesday morning," Mr. Churchill said, and added, "after they were repulsed."

The ship was the German Hipper-class cruiser Scharnhorst, he said.

Action Started At 18,000 Yards

Action started at 18,000 yards, Mr. Churchill told the excited house, adding that the German ship's speed was very great and the Renown had to push to 24 knots.

After a further two minutes of firing a vertical column of smoke was observed rising from the Scharnhorst, he said.

After nine minutes of firing the Renown observed hits on the forward superstructure of the German vessel. She stopped firing and later her turret began "on local control,"

The 10,000-ton cruiser Hipper "drew a smoke screen across the wounded battleship," Mr. Churchill said.

As the Renown opened fire "on the Hipper which turned away" with German ships "now returning at high speed."

"In the end I regret to say they succeeded in inflicting considerable damage on the Renown, which was damaged at 23,000 yards when she became invisible," Mr. Churchill said.

He added that messages from the Renown broke off at the moment that "they became invisible," and "I never heard another word from a few hours ago."

DETERMINED ATTACK

A very determined attack was made on Wednesday by two waves of Royal Air Force planes in 12 planes each, Mr. Churchill said, in which two German ships were attacked and "one has not been seen since."

He said that on Monday morning it seemed as though the German forces which "had sunk the Blenheim" would have been between our forces in the north and the main home forces in the south, which were going to it. However, they got away."

A torpedo-armed aircraft of the fleet air arm "attacked enemy shipping in the harbor of Trondheim," Mr. Churchill said, adding that "I look forward to making another statement to parliament very shortly," the First Lord said.

SEVEN INJURED

Seven men—four officers and three sailors—were injured when a bomb hit the flagship Blenheim, Mr. Churchill said, adding that "the ship was damaged, but the crew was unhurt."

"I look forward to making another statement to parliament very shortly," the First Lord said.

"In recounting the attack to the British destroyers' attack on the German in Narvik, Mr. Churchill said the fighting was "worthy of any in British naval records."

"The destruction of one ship, the sinking of the destroyer Force and blowing up of a munitions ship which was perhaps intended to be a mine, was a very serious blow to the Nazis," Mr. Churchill said.

"I am sure that the fact that the British destroyers' attack on the German in Narvik, Mr. Churchill said the fighting was "worthy of any in British naval records."

ported German planes had dropped light bombs as they circled the Norwegian railway station.

Reports pouring into Sweden said the Norwegians were blasting bridges to make German advances difficult and cut off German forces already in possession of Norwegian territory.

Norway was hastily fortifying every defence point and arming troops, members of rifle clubs, and military school pupils to help defend the formation.

The Norwegian government said German troops trying to advance toward Elverum, the temporary seat of government, had been repulsed. The formation, it was reported, lay on the railway line from Oslo.

The captured capital's water works, still under German hands, the government reported, are being held by the Norwegians.

HOWE STARTS ORGANIZATION OF MINISTRY

Howe, minister of transport, also sworn in as minister of munitions and supply, yesterday set about the organization of his new department.

Throughout the afternoon the minister was in conference with members of the former war supply board, the duties of which will be taken over by the new department and last night it was reported that some of the members of the board would resign within a few days.

No official confirmation of the resignation of the board was given by Wallace R. Campbell, chairman of the board, and he had nothing to say last night when asked about the report, and Mr. Howe could not be reached.

A statement issued by the Prime Minister's office Tuesday night announcing the establishment of the department said the members of the board would resign within a few days.

Associated with the new department, in addition to Mr. Campbell, the board is composed of Mr. G. Gravel, Montreal, W. C. Woodward, Vancouver, and Mr. W. A. T. Ramsay, Saint John.

R. A. C. Henry, Montreal, liaison officer between the government and the board, is reported to be the former war supply board's minister of munitions and supply.

Dutch Army On War Footing As Invasion By Nazis Is Feared

By GERAUD JOUVE

Havas Staff Writer

AMSTERDAM, April 11.—The Dutch army today, to all intents, was on a war footing and defence positions were occupied along the whole eastern frontier, where for the past two days—since the invasion of Denmark and Norway—increasing troop movements have been reported.

Completion of necessary preparations to stop a possible German invasion was seen in the fact that authorities today reopened the railway lines to guide traffic, although maintaining restrictions on passenger travel.

The evacuation of Arnhem, Nijmegen and other frontier towns was hastily reported here. Schools and hospitals were evacuated first. Meanwhile, the Netherlands population, going through its third crisis since the beginning of hostilities, took calmly the cancellation of leaves and other military precautions.

OTHER STEPS TAKEN

In addition to the evacuation of frontier areas, the following steps were reported:

Highways and ports were placed under close guard. At several points, particularly Limburg, automobile traffic was completely stopped.

Barbed wire was placed by Dutch troops on the roads at all strategic points, and the explosives were put in position on all possible routes of invasion.

Telephone communications were interrupted for several hours last night at various frontier areas.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT DEFENCES

Particular attention was being paid to anti-aircraft defences. These precautions stressed strongly by the Netherlands' fear that the German high command may try to repeat the famous Schlieffen plan which was only partially carried out in the last war by the invasion of Belgium.

The use of this plan—a flanking drive through the low countries to France—is generally considered to be the German high command's only way out, in view of Germany's geographic position and above all the existence of the Scheldt and Meuse rivers which prevent a direct attack against French territory.

It was generally feared here that the Germans—supposedly receiving a setback from Allied forces around Norway—would try to create a new "diversion" by invading Holland or Belgium.

No large-scale movement of German troops near the frontier has been reported in the past two days, but it is known that motorized divisions have been in place on the border since the end of the Polish invasion.

At several points on the border, however, German troops have cut passages through the woods, as if to clear a path for motorized forces.

AIR BATTLE AT OSLO RELATED BY EYEWITNESS

STOCKHOLM, April 11.—Count Axel Countat of Sweden, who returned from Norway Tuesday, told how the German air troops in at least 20 heavy translocated bombers took Oslo airport in a sensational manner.

Count Countat said the air attack was made between 7 and 9 a.m. when the German air troops swooped over, silencing the one anti-aircraft gun at the airport, in about 45 minutes of bombing and machine-gunning.

After the one gun crew was subdued and the Norwegian planes chased away, the port was captured almost without opposition.

The planes then landed about 20 bombers each, who marched toward Oslo.

The Germans also bombed the naval station at Hovsen, and replied to the fire of batteries at Oslo fjord fortress.

Danish Vessels In Canada Likely Will Be Detained

OTTAWA, April 11.—Any Danish ships in Canadian waters are likely to be detained as a result of Germany's invasion and establishment of a protectorate over Denmark, it was learned yesterday.

I should not think any ship of Danish register in Canada would be allowed to leave Canadian waters," said one authoritative source.

At the same time it was not known definitely here whether there were any Danish ships in Canadian waters but any move to detain such vessels here, it was said, would be a natural development after Tuesday's order in regard to dealings with Denmark and Norway.

British Soldiers Will Keep Guard On Cable Station

HONGKONG, April 11.—Soldiers on the United States cable ship Dickenson, returning yesterday from Fanning Island, said 30 British soldiers were stationed there to prevent a recurrence of the German raid on the island in the first great war. A German warship at that time wrecked the cable station and cut the cable.

Values Of Life Safe With Allies

LONDON, Ont. April 11.—Count Serge Flory, press attaché of the ministry of foreign affairs in France, told a service club yesterday that as long as the British and France have full confidence in each other. The values of life are safe, he said, as long as all that our enemies can do.

TCA PLANES WILL DOUBLE AIR SERVICE

Two Trans-Continental Return Trips Daily Are Scheduled

WINNIPEG, April 11.—Trans-Canada Air Lines will make two return Transcontinental flights daily starting Sunday, General Superintendent O. T. Larson announced here today. Only one westbound and one eastbound flight now are made by T.C.A. aircraft.

The new westbound service will leave Montreal at 7:30 a.m. E.S.T. and arrive in Vancouver at 10:30 p.m. P.S.T. while the new eastbound flight will leave Vancouver at 6:30 a.m. P.S.T. and arrive at Montreal, N.B., at 5:40 a.m. A.S.T.

The regular westbound T.C.A. plane leaves Montreal at 6 p.m. A.S.T. and arrives in Vancouver at 11:30 a.m. P.S.T. while the eastbound service will leave Vancouver at 4:30 p.m. P.S.T. and arrive in Montreal at 11:00 a.m. E.S.T.

Schedule changes in the Alberta transcontinental and a third daily round trip between Vancouver and Seattle, to start Sunday, also were announced.

Southbound planes to Alberta leave Edmonton at seven a.m. and 3:30 p.m. A.S.T. daily, arriving at Calgary by 8:10 and 6:40 p.m. and completing their flight to Lethbridge at 9:10 a.m. and 7:40 p.m. Northbound flights leave Lethbridge at 10:15 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. arriving at Calgary at 11:40 a.m. and 9:20 p.m. and at Edmonton at 12:25 p.m. and 10:40 a.m.

A T.C.A. plane will leave Vancouver at 7:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. A.S.T. starting Sunday. Return flights from Seattle leave at 10 a.m. and 8:45 p.m.

Battle of Jutland Recalled by Navy's Northern Successes

By The Canadian Press

The word "Jutland" came naturally to the minds of Britons today as they heard and read of the Royal Navy's exploits in its drive to smash Germany in the Baltic.

The navy's audacious action through Tuesday and Wednesday had two points of similarity with that battle of 24 years ago. Both were in the grand tradition of valor. And if early indications of success in the present sea war are borne out and augmented, it may have great resemblance of the sea in British hands as effectively as Jutland did.

After Jutland the German Grand Fleet never dared to come out again until it surrendered to Beatty on Nov. 21, 1918.

Fighting of Tuesday and yesterday in northern waters may have cut Hitler's communications lines between occupied Denmark and his forces in Norway, ended his hopes of getting Scandinavian air by sea as Jutland ended German chances of importing war materials in the first great war.

There the similarity between the actions ends. Jutland was a full-dress engagement between fleets, fought in a more-or-less clearly defined area off the Danish coast, where the North Sea joined the Skagerrak, entrance to the fabled line waters that test in the Baltic.

The present fighting has extended over 1,000 miles of coastline and embraced almost every angle in naval warfare except the engagement of capital ships—action by air auxiliaries, destroyers or engagements, invulnerable of shore points by landing parties.

There has been no indication of how many ships took part in the present campaign as a whole—the destroyer action at Narvik, the reported reappearance of Bergen and Tromsø, the battle in the Skagerrak, but obviously there has been no fighting between fleets drawn up in battle formation.

There is one other angle that calls Jutland to mind. The navy's most trying job in the first war was war watching the Germans, waiting for a fight.

Germany's naval strategy, which backed up Jutland, was to try to concentrate its high sea fleet on a detached point of the British fleet, to risk a decisive action until the Royal Navy had been worn down by hit-and-run tactics.

And even though Jutland was decisive in its effect, the greater part of the high sea fleet engaged in the darkness and did not meet its end until scuttled by its crews at Scapa Flow.

Today there was speculation on whether the British admiralty may have done a bit of reuniting on Monday when German naval units were reported coming out in the Hudson and steaming north, whether there may have been a definite tactical hybrid in wait until the possibility of enemy escape was at an end.

SMALL CROP IS FORECAST FOR STATES

WASHINGTON, April 11.—With an estimated 28 per cent of the seeded acreage abandoned because of damage from drought and other unfavorable weather conditions, the agricultural department forecast yesterday a United States winter wheat crop of 428,215,000 bushels, the smallest since 1933.

Based on conditions prevailing April 1, the estimate was about 25,000,000 bushels larger than one made on the basis of conditions prevailing Dec. 1. The department said conditions had improved since the latter date, but that there was much uncertainty about the crop in the heart of the winter wheat belt, particularly in Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and parts of Colorado and Texas.

The winter wheat forecast was nearly a fourth lower than last year's production of 563,430,000 bushels and the 1939-40 average of 511,867,000 bushels.

Despite the short crop outlook, officials said confidence was pointed in ample supplies to meet normal American requirements of about 600,000,000 bushels annually.

MAKING DELIVERIES

As the company now is delivering on its original contracts for 7,000 tons to the Canadian government and 5,000 to the British government, it is in full swing.

The first Canadian-made gun was mounted in the firing range when a party of newspapermen were conducted through the Inglis plant recently.

Brantford To Have Empire Air School

OTTAWA, April 11.—Establishment of a service flying training school at Brantford, Ont., under the British Commonwealth air training plan was announced here last night by the national defence department.

Whether the British admiralty may have done a bit of reuniting on Monday when German naval units were reported coming out in the Hudson and steaming north, whether there may have been a definite tactical hybrid in wait until the possibility of enemy escape was at an end.

Canadian-made Bren Guns Now Being Produced for British, Dominion Armies

By FRANK FLAHERTY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, April 11.—In the centre of a busy Toronto industrial area, machine guns spatter out a hail of bullets that would be deadly if sprayed on a column of enemy troops.

Here, however, the hail ends in a solid bank, backed by a sheet of steel and a concrete wall, the firing range at the plant of John Inglis Co. Ltd. here, where machine guns are being made for the Canadian and British governments.

The firing range is under the complete control and management of the department of national defence.

While primarily an infantry weapon, the Bren is used for anti-aircraft work and as a fixed machine gun.

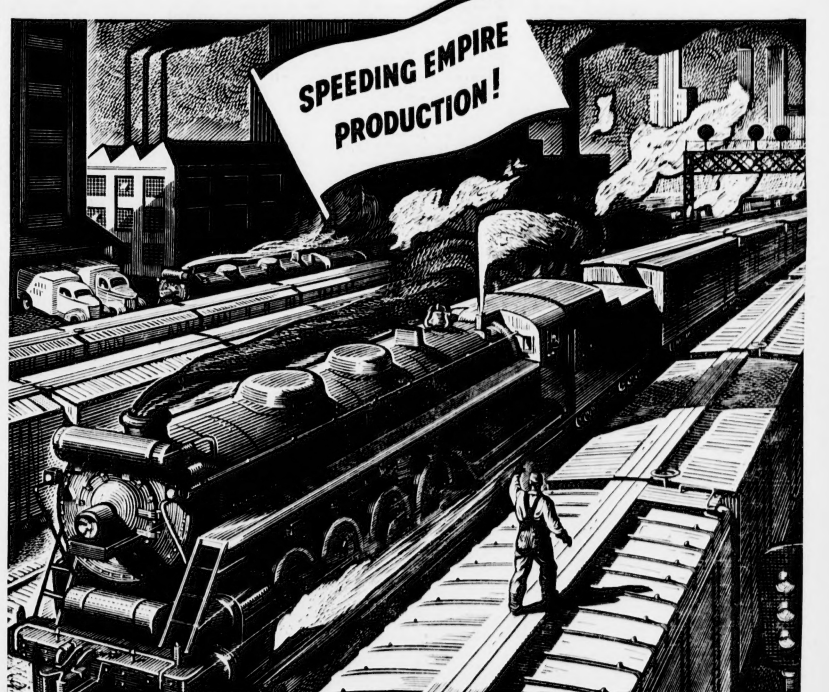

Usually a crew of two men with each gun, one man firing and the other changing magazines and barrels. The magazine which holds 28 rounds, fits on top of the gun.

Each unit normally includes two barrels and when one barrel becomes heated it is removed by a simple operation and replaced by a cool one. In continuous fire the barrel must be changed after seven rounds, have been fired in actual operations continuous fire is not possible.

Britain To Fight For Restoration Norway, Denmark

LONDON, April 11.—The cause of Norway and Denmark is our cause and there can be no force for either reclamation of efforts until their armies are re-equipped and territories restored. Dominion Secretary Anthony Eden said last night in a speech to the Midland League.

None of the Canadian-made guns have yet been issued to the troops.

SPEEDING EMPIRE PRODUCTION!

Canadian Nickel

HELPS KEEP FREIGHT MOVING ON SCHEDULE

RAILROADS in Canada and throughout the Empire are already keyed to the new production tempo. As new demands arise, they must be ready to do their part.

In Canada alone, 25 million dollars worth of railroad equipment is on order. Numerous shops are producing locomotives, and freight and express cars. To make sure that this equipment will spend the maximum amount of time in useful service, and the minimum amount of time in the repair shops, alloys of Canadian Nickel are being used for vital parts.

Nickel Steels and Nickel Cast Irons give greater strength with less weight; stand up under the strains and poundings of constant service; resist the destructive effects of heat, abrasion and corrosion.

And so the railroads, like all branches of Empire industry, are today calling for more and more Canadian Nickel. It is fortunate that, in a crisis like the present, the world's largest reserves of Nickel ore are located in the Empire—in Canada.

It is gratifying to know that the Nickel smelting and refining plants have been charged and modernized to produce as they have never produced before.

First Students of Empire Air Scheme To Report April 29

OTTAWA, April 11.—First class of prospective pilots, air observers and air gunners under the British Commonwealth air training plan will report to number one initial training school at Toronto April 29, the Royal Canadian Air Force announced last night.

Wing Commander Geoffrey Stuart O'Brien, former commercial air pilot and schoolmaster, has been appointed to command No. 1 initial training school on the grounds of the Eglinton Hunt Club in Toronto.

The present ground training school at the RCAF base at Trenton, Ont., will be transferred to No. 1 initial training school at Toronto April 15 to be absorbed into that establishment.

ONE OF THREE SCHOOLS

Staff of No. 1 initial training school will consist of 10 officers, 35 airmen and 41 civilians. Majority of the civilians will be employed as cooks and messengers.

The Toronto school will be one of three initial training schools throughout Canada. Recruits from the training school will go to one of three schools for a course of familiarization with air force work. Lectures, shopwork and practical instruction in the use of air warfare will be supplemented with physical training.

Applicants of the recreational side will ride their future air force careers. Those chosen as ground pilot material will proceed from No. 1 initial training schools to one of 20 elementary flying training schools and later to service training schools. Recruits selected as air observers will go from initial training schools to one of 10 air observer training schools and these chosen as air gunners will receive training at one of four wireless training schools before undergoing training at bombing and gunnery schools.

The commanding officer, No. 1 initial training school, will be the commanding officer of the original 10 Glou of Toronto Army Co-operation Squadron, the first air force unit Canada sent overseas. Wing Commander O'Brien served overseas in the first Great War ground troops and returned to Canada in 1918 to command a training squadron of the Royal Air Force at Toronto.

Western Command Will Open Monday

OTTAWA, April 11.—Group Captain A. R. Shearer of the Royal Canadian air force, as officer commanding No. 2 training command with headquarters in Winnipeg, will have administrative control of 17 schools, a maintenance depot, repair depot and equipment depot in Western Canada under the British Commonwealth air training plan, the national defence department announced last night.

Group Captain Shearer will open his Winnipeg headquarters next Monday, and will have headquarters staff of 10 officers, 35 airmen and 41 civilians.

Schools under this command will include five elementary flying training schools, four service training schools, three air observer schools, three bombing and gunnery schools, one wireless school and one air navigation school. The training depot, to distribute recruits among the schools, will be in Brandon, Man., and the equipment depot in Winnipeg. Location of the repair depot will be decided later.

Boundaries of No. 2 command, as defined by the departmental statement are: "On the east by the 87th meridian of west longitude and on the south by the international boundary, to its junction with the Saskatchewan-Alberta boundary, and on the southwest by a line joining the southwest corner of Manitoba to Reflex Lake, on the Saskatchewan-Alberta boundary, and on the west by the Saskatchewan-Alberta boundary north of Reflex Lake."

BRITAIN BANS ALL EXPORTS TO DENMARK

LONDON, April 11.—Great Britain Wednesday imposed an embargo on all exports to Denmark and provisions ban on shipments to all other Scandinavian and Baltic states.

Orders were given to detain all Danish ships in British ports and it was believed they may be subject to seizure. It was announced that Danish vessels on the high seas are now liable to be halted and taken into British ports.

It was understood that the British dominions are applying similar measures immediately.

The move was taken to block immediately any possibility of a loophole in the blockade of Germany through her new moves in Scandinavia.

OTTAWA, April 11.—The national defence department announced last night 316 airmen will graduate Saturday after completing their five-week course at the Royal Canadian Air Force Technical Training School at St. Thomas, Ont.

They will be the first class to be graduated since the school was established and instruction started last year.

The airmen graduating Saturday evening 120 were engine mechanics, 120 fabric workers and 32 sheet metal workers.

Another class will graduate June 2 and a third on June 24 but after that the "flow system" will be in force and a number of airmen will be made available each week.

AIR RAID ALARM SOUNDS DURING VISIT OF KING

DOVER, England, April 11.—An air raid alarm sounded at Dover Castle yesterday while the King was making the first visit paid it by a reigning sovereign in 100 years.

Apparently neither the King nor Field Marshal Lord Birdwood, who accompanied him, heard the shrieking alarms as they drove from one barracks to another at the castle.

As their car rolled to a stop on the parade ground, the commanding officer hastily saluted and informed them of the danger. Before they could take cover, however, the all-clear signal sounded.

METROPOLITAN LIFE CONTINUES PROGRESS IN 1939

POLICYHOLDERS RECEIVE ALMOST A BILLION DOLLARS IN DIVIDENDS IN LAST TEN YEARS.

OTTAWA, April 11.—The dividend payments of almost a billion dollars to Metropolitan policyholders during the last ten years are featured in the seventy-second annual report of the company released today. The report highlights the company's growth and stability over the past decade.

It shows that during this period, in addition to contractual payments to policyholders in the form of dividends, the company has added to its contingency reserves. It also strengthened the basis of its policy reserves. Improved properties acquired through foreclosure, and reduced the valuation of securities and real estate.

And, during the same period, Metropolitan policyholders benefited by the amount of fifty-eight million dollars expended in health and welfare work.

The report shows that during the year 1939, for the eighth successive year, policyholders and their beneficiaries received benefits of more than half a billion dollars. These 1939 payments, which amounted to $494,822,869, averaging $5,234.47 a minute of business days, were the largest ever made in any one year and brought the total to policyholders and their beneficiaries during the years 1930-1939 to more than five and a quarter billion dollars.

The Metropolitan comment pointed out that more than two thirds of the last decade's year were made to living policyholders and the remainder to beneficiaries. It continues in line with the ratio of payments made in previous years to living policyholders and beneficiaries. This payment of approximately $495 million to living policyholders in 1939 is a half billion dollars to living policyholders in the past 10 years and the outstanding dividend is realizing that, while making payments to their beneficiaries through proper insurance programming, they can also make provision for themselves.

The report comments upon the Canadian business of the Metropolitan and shows that satisfactory increases have been made in the various departments.—Investments in Canada have increased by $17,053,212, income to policyholders and beneficiaries having increased by $2,960,000, and the total business in force in the Dominion increased by well over $100,000,000 to a total of $1,162,029,558.

The company's investments in Canada, as at December 31st last, totalled $284,810,353, of which $17,053,212 is represented by Dominion, provincial and municipal bonds. It pointed out that the total amount now invested here for the benefit of policyholders and beneficiaries has been paid to policyholders and beneficiaries since the company entered Canada in 1912, exceeds the total premiums collected in Canada by $150,000,000.

Health and welfare work in Canada were continued, the company participating in 55 health campaigns during the year, distributing 1,500,000 pieces of health literature, and through the operation of a nursing service visiting 202,900 visits to sick policyholders without any additional cost to them.

Other features in the Metropolitan report which refer to the total company business in Canada and the United States, were that the assets of the company held for the benefit of the policyholders had grown to $1,151,596,181, an increase of $100,085,504 during 1939; that dividend declarations for payment to policyholders in 1939, amounted to $172,000,000; that life insurance in force at the end of 1939 totalled $2,100,000,000, an increase of $100,000,000 in the history of any company.

The current dividend declaration, again above the $100,000,000 mark, provides for the payment to policyholders of $112,000,000 during this year. The dividend allocation for Ordinary policies is $67,288,711; for Accident and Health, $27,225,000; for Life Insurance, $17,486,289.

The company will have paid to its policyholders in bonus and dividend a total of $1,504,960,186 in Ordinary and Group policyholders during the year 1939, an increase of $1,000,000,000, and in Accident and Health $1,000,000,000, an increase of $1,000,000,000.

The new high of more than $2,100,000,000 of life insurance in force, 1939, is a record for the company. It is divided as follows: $1,162,029,558 in Ordinary policies; $72,000,000 in Accident and Health policies; and $1,000,000,000 in Life Insurance policies.

Coming Our Way

The events of the week have in several ways affected Canada's position in relation to the war.

These events undoubtedly bring sensibly nearer the time when the Second Division will proceed overseas, and point the urgency of getting the Air Training scheme into operation as quickly as possible. These are matters which the military authorities have in hand, and they may be depended upon to take full cognizance of what is implied by the sudden change from a war of attrition to a war of action.

The closing of the Danish market to Britain means that Canada will have to supply Britain with more of the kinds of food-stuffs British consumers have been drawing from that country. Norway being at war and Sweden cut off from the outer world, the United States and some other countries may draw upon Canada more heavily for newsprint and timber supplies.

Canada's naval forces may come in for some wider responsibilities as a result of Britain's claim that it is now in possession of Iceland and Greenland. Bases established on those islands would enable Nazi U-boats and airplanes to wage incessant war against commercial vessels plying from Britain to Canada, and it may fall to the lot of Canadian warships to extend their patrol to those northern waters.

In the military sense, the economic sense, and the geographic sense, the week has brought the war nearer to Canada than it has been.

Ration-Cards in Denmark

When the Nazis took possession of Denmark their first administrative act was to put the Danes on rations. These were told how much of the produce of their country's farms they are to be permitted to eat. The measure was to purpose in imposing these restrictions unless the intention is to compel the Danes to get along on less than they have been eating and would eat if left to choose for themselves. The implication is plain. The menu in Denmark is to be scaled down to that allowed throughout Germany, or to that level as it is thought to be safe to demand of a proud and freedom-loving people. The Danes, a nation of superior farmers, may consume only so much of the fruits of their own skill and enterprise and labor as their masters ordain.

Such is the "protection" Herr Hitler has extended to the Danish people. It is the same, in fact, as the significance of the treatment he has given to every other foreign people who have fallen under his domination. Germany's requirements, not their own wishes or rights, determine what and how much the non-German subjects of the Fuehrer may eat. The ration-card is for them the symbol of authority, the tightened belt an impressive and compressive reminder of the overlordship of Adolf.

Ration-cards in Denmark ought to suggest something to the peoples of those other countries which Herr Hitler put on his timetable of conquest. And to those everywhere who have imagination enough to picture for themselves a set of living conditions in keeping with such arbitrary interference with the rights of the individual.

The Blockade is Effective

The one immediate and definite gain Germany has made by the Scandinavian raid is complete control over Danish supplies of food, present and prospective. Hitherto Denmark's surplus supplies have gone to whatever foreign market offered the best returns. Hereafter they will go exclusively to the Reich, regardless of what price may be offered elsewhere. And the Danish producers will have to take in payment whatever the Nazi chiefs may choose to give them.

Britain has been heavy buyer of Danish bacon, butter, eggs and some other farm products; and got the supplies because it paid more for them than Germany would pay. In future Britain will get none of these things, and the producers will not have the wide choice afforded in the world market as to what they should take in return. Their products will go to Germany, at prices set by Berlin, and the producers will get in return what ever goods the exigencies of war may make available in Germany.

British consumers will not have to draw in their belts because Danish supplies are no longer obtainable. They will be able to get those commodities from other sources in undiminished quantities, though the cost of freightage will be somewhat heavier because of distance.

But the gain to Germany is undoubtedly important. That is shown by the imposition of the rationing system designed to curtail Danish consumption and leave the largest possible surplus for export to the Reich.

Those who have wondered whether the blockade was being felt in Germany may see in this first-hand testimony that it is; and that Russia has not been delivering the goods in the amounts hoped for.

The Gamble in Norway

The main objective of the adventure in Norway is fairly clear. The purpose undoubtedly was to put Sweden in a vice, by establishing the Nazi power in the northern half of the peninsula. If that were done, Germany could count on a continued and exclusive supply of Swedish iron, and could also dominate the economic life of that country to suit its own ends. Nor was it probably overlooked that the move would forestall any possible drive on the part of Russia to make itself master of the Scandinavian countries.

Another, though less important result would be that Germany would obtain a long sea front on the northern Atlantic, admirably adapted for carrying on its submarine warfare to better advantage. The Norwegian fjords would make splendid bases for U-boats.

The drive was well-planned and daringly executed. German warships were evidently scattered far up the Norwegian coast before the fleet moved north on Monday to seize the Danish and Norwegian capitals, and transports loaded with landing parties and equipment duly made their appearance on the scene when the time was ripe.

No real planning, however, could eliminate the risk inherent in the nature of the enterprise. British warships appeared inconveniently before the expedition had time to occupy and consolidate the positions it was intended to seize. The blitzkrieg went lightning-like enough. Instead of capturing Norway at a stroke, the expeditionary force was engaged in a furious sea battle all the way from the Skagerrak to Narvik.

The complete results of the sea-fight may not be known for days. But the carefully-planned conquest of Norway has been frustrated. If the battle has gone as reported, units of the expeditionary force are out on a limb, some at sea in the subarctic and some stranded at scattered points on the Norwegian coast, with rather bad prospects of getting back to Germany.

The Passing Show

By MAX FREEDMAN

Germany two years ago took 41 per cent of Sweden's exports of ore, and now that she cannot buy from either France or Spain, the source of supply has become of great importance. If the war machine of the Reich is to continue to function, these Swedish shipments now total about 10,000,000 tons annually.

THE STAKES OF WAR Sweden's high grade ore, nine-tenths of which has an iron content in excess of 60 per cent, is carried through the Norwegian port of Narvik, down the Norwegian coast and into the Baltic. Seizure of Denmark, therefore, does not give the Reich unimpeded use of Sweden's resources. For practical purposes that act of aggression is without value as far as Sweden is concerned, and Germany now is engaged in open battle with the Allies off the Norwegian coasts where she stands to lose much that she can win.

A glance at the map made one feel that Germany took Denmark by force in order to shut off the Allied fleet from stopping the flow of shipments from Sweden. The bulk of Sweden's ore resources are in the north. The Baltic route from Lulea, on the Gulf of Bothnia, is open for only eight months of the year. Railroad facilities are too meagre to permit of any adequate shipments through the mainland of Sweden to feed the insatiable demand of Germany.

It seems clear that Germany's present step has cost her a vital source of supply. Now that the Norwegian coast is open to the Allies, it will not leave them for the war's duration, or as long as necessity requires. No matter what the outcome of the present campaign may be, as far as the immediate independence of Norway is concerned, Germany has forfeited one of the pillars on which her economic strength rested.

Nor did her seizure of Denmark mean as much as she pretends. At least half the stock of Denmark depends upon feed shipped in from beyond her borders. When the blockade begins to grip that tiny state, a large part of the Danish population will not be left to starve.

WHAT ABOUT DENMARK? It is of course, not the DANES' but of much use, Germany, at the moment, is trying to help her economy by arbitrating the exchange of money. Currency juggling is about all that is left to her. The lost was not a big, nor of a nature to be picked up and carried away, as was the case in both Austria and Czechoslovakia.

A week ago, the Norwegian government issued figures to show what effect the war had upon ore shipments from Narvik since December. In January, 1939, 487,890 tons went to the Reich and only 67,730 tons to Britain, while in February, 1939, exports to Germany were 475,482 tons and 70,234 to the United Kingdom. In January, 1940, Germany obtained 281,740 tons and Britain 148,291, and in February, 281,740 tons and 148,291.

THE EFFECT OF CONFLICT Germany went through Narvik, compared with 131,885 tons for the Reich in both Austria and Czechoslovakia.

Britain. What is the explanation? The British foreign office says Germany's imports from Sweden slumped in February because of the Almkær incident. It means that the British would patrol northern waters, and if necessary, take firm action against Germany.

Now, is it not fair to assume that, if a mere warning of the big clash was given, the actual test of a major naval war will do infinitely more harm to the military might of the Reich in both Austria and Czechoslovakia.

Seen in that light, the dramatic events in northern Europe are not simply a sign of Allied weakness, but a few more steps in the direction of a new world war. Britain's initiative becomes not a rash act of heroic conduct, but what is more important, a wise measure of common sense, whereby the Reich can be hit in a position she already has shown to be open to attack.

Already observers say Germany may strike at Rumania to protect her source of oil supply, now that her ore from Sweden seems in jeopardy. Of the 7,120,000 tons of oil the Reich used in 1938, she imported 4,000,000 tons. Before the war Germany got 70 per cent of her oil supplies across the Atlantic.

Shame and Despair Fritz Thyssen, exiled German industrialist who, ironically enough, helped Adolf Hitler to power, in a letter to the republican press, has branded the Fuehrer as "mentally sick" and appeals to German liberals and working class leaders to overthrow the Nazi regime before it is too late.

There are "millions of good Germans who are oppressed with a terrible feeling of shame and despair," says Thyssen. "There is not a word of truth in what Hitler would have us believe of the bloodthirsty and the French, the criminal sentiments of the Poles and the perfidy and desire to destroy us on the part of the English."

It would be interesting to know how far Thyssen's views represent those of the persons to whom they are addressed in Germany. Are there still men and women there who would admit the justice of Thyssen's summary of the attitude of the world against the Nazi regime? Or has the ceaseless and perverted propaganda of Dr. Goebbels warped judgment and blunted the desire for truth of an entire people?—Regina Leader-Post.

General Odium for Command

Another of Canada's Great War leaders has been chosen to head the active service in the present conflict. Canada's Second Division, C.A.S.F., is still in this country and there is no precise knowledge outside official circles as to the extent of its mobilization or its training. It is understood to be well on the way to the stage of development reached by the First Division prior to its embarkment. Whether or not the Second Division will cross the ocean before the First is sent to France, or wherever it goes, is uncertain. The appointment of Brigadier-General Odium as commanding officer suggests the possibility of an early movement. In any event the appointment itself is interesting and it will be a great credit to General Odium served with distinction in the last war.

He had already been active for many years in the militia and in the Canadian army in South Africa. He was in the Great War from the beginning to the end, holding various commands, and was twice mentioned in dispatches. He was three times wounded, and was made successively a D.S.O., a C.M.G., and a C.B. He has long been one of Vancouver's most outstanding citizens, an old journalist, a businessman, a philanthropist, and always a soldier. The government in selecting him to head the Second Division will have in him a leader of the highest type, a seasoned warrior, an experienced general, and at the same time a man who understands the men, who treat him as such.—Montreal Gazette.

Fifty-five years ago today (April 11, 1885) a train pulled out of the International depot at Halifax, which was to prove an agent of Canadian unity and which should not be forgotten by the people of Canada. It was carrying the Nova Scotia provisional battalion composed of volunteers from that province. New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, bound for the front lines, to fight in the name of the maintenance of law and order in the Dominion of Canada.

No significance lay in the fact that even at that period there was still a lot of latent discontent in Nova Scotia against confederation; indeed, a few years ago, a resolution was actually proposed in the House of Assembly. Yet here were young men of the maritimes going west to preserve the unity of the dominion, and to defend the law and order in the Dominion of Canada.

The Nova Scotia regiment did not get into the area of action, but it did line service on communications lines in the theatre of the war. The men of the regiment, in July, the militia were the guests of the city on their way home. No few of the militia were in the ranks of the Winnipeg volunteers, and many of them were in the ranks of the Winnipeg volunteers, and many of them were in the ranks of the Winnipeg volunteers.

Religion Day By Day

"Charm," said one author, in effect, "is something which if a woman possesses she needs nothing else, but without it no other accomplishment will avail her." The saying ran through my mind as I heard Dr. T. R. Glover, the brilliant author from Cambridge University, preach in an Ottawa church upon the "glories of Jesus Christ."

In interpreting John's phrase "Full of grace and truth," he said that the great glory of Jesus was "charm." Jesus had personal charm. He was gracious and winsome, full of attractiveness to all sorts of persons. And his example leaves almost aching desire for our day. He was likeable, personable, and full of charm. We are like to Jesus not when we are displaying theological propositions, but when we are displaying the charm that characterized Him.

Of course, as really good manners may be called for, but the great glory of Jesus was "charm." Jesus had personal charm. He was gracious and winsome, full of attractiveness to all sorts of persons. And his example leaves almost aching desire for our day. He was likeable, personable, and full of charm. We are like to Jesus not when we are displaying theological propositions, but when we are displaying the charm that characterized Him.

"We would see Jesus," and seeing Him, and accompanying Him, we would display His characteristics. This is our prayer today, Our Father, Amen.

One of life's most attractive moments is when you are at the table and see a dish of green garden peas, sugar peas, waiting for you. At a time like this you are eager to start eating, and you have something worth eating.

Both the fresh and dried peas have been known on the table of mankind for a long time. The dried pea is a very old food. It represents a little different way of getting the peas to the consumer. P. T. O'CONNOR IS PRESIDENT LIBERAL GROUP

Casselman Receives Ovation As East Edmonton Civic Meet

P. E. Ottumwa was elected president of the East Edmonton federal Liberal association at its annual meeting Wednesday night in the T. O. O. hall on 55 street, succeeding Jack Marshall.

More than 150 people were present at the meeting and attended Fred C. Casselman, T. O. O. hall, East Edmonton, an ovation when he formally addressed the gathering, emphasizing his interest in his district and saying the city was privileged to have the Ontario University of medicine in the heart of its industry.

MORE MEMBERS.

Reports submitted showed the association had a membership of 150.

Officers elected Wednesday night are: Hon. President, Rt. Hon. W. L. M. Jones, M.P.; Vice-president, Fred C. Casselman, M.P.; and Hon. James A. MacKinnon, M.P. for West Edmonton, an independent; Mrs. Blanche Webb, secretary-treasurer, M. C. Hastings.

VIC-PRESIDENTS

General vice-presidents were selected amongst those who in the general federal election had been in charge of six or more polls.

They included William Copeland, Mrs. C. E. Ferris, James Hardy, W. R. Brownlee, Mrs. Gowda, C. H. Hall, George Ingerson, Don MacArthur, W. J. McDowell, Leonard Sims.

In addition, two representatives from each of the 85 polls in the riding will form a general executive for the association.

H. H. Burler, veteran Liberal leader and former president of the British Columbia Liberal association, was appointed chairman of a committee to draft and revise plans for the association committee.
